From the principal's desk:

As we begin the last week of Term 3 2021, I wanted once again to thank all the Baulko staff and community for their support of our students, particularly this term. All BHHS staff, in whatever role they have, have gone above and beyond in supporting the learning and wellbeing of our students. Our community have been patient and positive in supporting staff and students.

A special mention to our Year 12 students in what would usually be their final week of school, culminating in Graduation at the end of the week. Year 12 have faced a myriad of challenges in high school, particularly over this past two years. They have shown themselves to be resilient, positive, selfless and supportive as a cohort of young adults. Various options are still being discussed, including collecting feedback from Year 12, in how to best support them as the HSC

If you or your family have created or performed something you are very proud of please send to Head Teacher CAPA at puglianok@bhhs.com.au. We cannot wait to see what you have been working on!

Visual Arts:

Our year 7 Visual Art students have been delving into the photoshop program to learn a range of digital imaging techniques and skills. They have been completing hybrid animal artworks and now are doing wonderful work exploring how to use photoshop to make Pop Art style portraits. They have researched Andy Warhol's celebrity portraits to inspire their artmaking. Our next project is to build a bug!

Pop Art Self-Portraits

Students begin 'Build a Bug' task:

Year 8 have been working carefully to select colours and experiment with watercolour paints in preparation for painting their Del Kathryn inspired self-portraits. They have studied this artists practice and her work closely to produce works they really reflect her style but also their own personalities. Their efforts have been really impressive and we are very proud of the works in progress.

Some year 8 Self-portraits in progress:

Drama:

Year 9 have been embracing the digital sound medium to develop stories for a locked down audience. They have been researching a variety of podcasts to develop the breadth of their knowledge and are working towards completing their scripts before recording and editing. Below are the synopses for each their projects. They have selected ambitious and often mature subject matter - hopefully we will have them ready for you to listen to in the near future.

Champagne Problems: A forty-year old white man from the deep south, a loud and proud female anarchist and a therapist who doesn't want to deal with their problems. What could possibly go wrong? Join this misadventurous trio on their journey through first-world problems, culture, modern life and bad blood. This is gonna go down in flames. Or the paperwork is, at least.

(Oliver Appave, Alisha Aggarwal, Priscilla Leung)

Addicted

You're addicted. I'm addicted. We're all addicted to the story of Addicted! In Sydney, 2020 (non-corona world), four girls with different addictions meet to overcome their worst adversities, themselves... Allana can't get off social media. Madison needs red cordial to live. Mia's addicted to becoming a toothpick. And Valerie is just obsessed with herself. Everyone has a story, everyone has an inner battle. Most of all, everyone has an addiction, no matter how big or small.

(Eugenie Jung, Pragya Gupta, Michelle Lam, Charlotte Cheng, Christina Yang)

Ambition and setbacks

After years of working hard at his job, Sanjay is excited to receive his hard-earned promotion! He puts himself out there in the interview but gets shot down due to blatant workplace racism. How will he move on and recover from this setback...listen in find out!

(Wolf Kumaran-Eriksson, Leo Cui, Risith Seraratne, Hywel Gan, Michael Sun)

Deception

In a world where the outside is a deadly environment, everything is safe inside the Cupola...or so it seems. Deception follows the story of Zephyr, a young student, and her friend as they try to uncover what's being hidden from them. What happens after 6:24? How does the elusive news reporter get her information? Will they ever get their freedom?

(Sajani Sumarasingh, Joy Thevasaeyan, Sankavi Jeyakanthan, Sravani Jujjuru)

A Message from the Wellbeing Team

Dear Parents/Guardians,

In the midst of uncertainty and ever-changing circumstances, it is especially important to support you and your child's mental, physical and emotional wellbeing. We understand that disruptions to routine can cause undue stress and anxiety, and we understand that the present circumstances surrounding Covid-19 are also likely to cause a mix of feelings and emotions.

The Wellbeing Team would like to remind you that there are many support services and information available to you and your child -24/7. We encourage you to be proactive in seeking information and/or support services when needed, and in safeguarding your child's mental health.

To assist you with this, the Wellbeing Team has put together a document containing details for a range of support services and information pertaining to mental health issues, parenting resources and more specifically to Covid-19.

Be proactive in supporting you and your child's mental health – access any of these resources when needed, and stay informed. Have regular conversations with your child about their wellbeing, and encourage them to engage with support services and open discussion about mental health.

If you have any questions or concerns, do not hesitate to contact one of your child's Year Advisers or myself.

We are here to support you, but there are also many resources and organisations available to support you beyond the school environment. We encourage you to engage with them.

On Behalf of the Wellbeing Team 2021 - Take care of yourselves!

BODY IMAGE Tips YOUNG PEOPLE

Did you know that body image is how you FEEL and THINK about your body? It's actually not about what you look like!

No two people were born to look or be the same. Celebrating and embracing our differences is really important. There isn't a right or a wrong way to look.

Beauty and appearance ideals exist in all societies and they are all unhelpful! These ideals don't encourage uniqueness but instead suggest that everyone 'should' and 'could' look a certain way, which is unrealistic! Spending time, money and energy on changing your appearance is exhausting and research tells us that altering your appearance won't help your body confidence or self-esteem in the long run. What will help, is reminding yourself that you have the power to change the way you see, think and feel about how you look.

Here are some positive tips to help you:

You are so much more than your appearance. You are not an 'object' or a 'thing'. You are a human being. Your weight, body shape, muscles, hair/skin colour, complexion, height does not define you. Your appearance does not determine your worth.

Avoid making unhelpful comparisons. The more you compare your appearance to siblings, friends, celebs, sport stars or anyone, the more unhappy you'll feel. It's ok to admire beauty in others, but avoid devaluing your own body if you do.

Treat your body well. Your body is the only one you're ever going to get. It might not look exactly as you'd like, but it does so many amazing things for you. Speaking kindly, finding exercise and activities that you love, eating mindfully and taking time out to rest, demonstrates body respect. It's really important that you avoid any kind of restrictive diet and excessive exercise plans. They do not work or help your body confidence (no matter how much advertisers try to make us think otherwise).

Keep yourself media and social media savvy.

What you see may not always be! It's important that you stay savvy when looking at media and social media images. Photoshop, hair and make-up, endless filters and editing tools work to create the highly stylised and perfect images that you see – on celebrities and our friends. You never really know what is going on behind the image, remember, no one is perfect.

Go easy on yourself... AND your friends! Body bullying and food shaming is never ok. Speaking kindly to yourself and your friends – face to face and online – is the only way. If you wouldn't say it to a friend, avoid saying it to yourself. If you couldn't say it to someone's face, don't say it to them online. Words can build people up or tear them down. Use your words carefully (to yourself and to others).

Have fun with your appearance but don't let it rule your life. It's ok to take pride in your appearance and have fun with fashion and styling (if that's what interests you), but obsessing and worrying about how you look is not good for us. Remember, you are more than your appearance, so spend time doing the things that make you feel good.

Surround yourself with people who accept you as you are. Changing your appearance to fit in won't make you a better, more lovable person. If a person or group doesn't like YOU for who YOU are, then it's time to find some new people to spend time with. You are enough just as you are.

If your body image is getting you down or you are worried about a friend, talking helps and Butterfly is here to listen:

National Helpline on 1800 ED HOPE (1800 33 4673) or support@thebutterflyfoundation.org.au

BODY IMAGE Tips FOR PARENTS

Children are very sensitive to messages about body image and appearance from their parents. Often you may not even be aware of the messages your child is hearing from you. Parents can have a very positive impact on the way a child feels about the way they look and their self esteem. Helping your child develop a healthy body image is important as it can also strengthen their relationship with eating and exercise and reduce the risk of developing disordered eating and eating disorders.

Here are some tips on ways you can be a good body image role model for your child:

Reflect on your own relationship with your body.

This may not be easy but being aware of your attitude towards your own body will help you be conscious of the messages you send to your kids. Try to avoid looking in the mirror and making negative comments about the way you look. If your child sees that you feel comfortable and happy with your body, this can help them feel comfortable in their own skin.

Avoid talking about diets. Dieting is the biggest risk factor for an eating disorder. Try to avoid talking about diets, your "naughty" eating habits, or your weight and size. This can give kids the impression that weight and size are highly valued by you and they might feel pressure to look a certain way or be a certain size. Celebrate diversity and emphasise how loved and valued your child is no matter what their weight, shape or size.

Talk to your child about the way they feel about the way they look. Encourage your child to talk with you about their feelings. Create space to talk about things on a daily basis including what is happening with their friends. If your child feels safe to talk to you, then they are likely to share feelings about their bodies with you.

Help your child stay body confident when using social media. Talk to your child about the realities of digital manipulation and that what they see in the media and online is not always real. Encourage them to reflect on how their social media experiences make them feel and if it's not positive then they need to change it up.

Despite best parenting efforts serious body image issues and eating disorders do develop. It's important to recognise the warning signs of body dissatisfaction and low self esteem as early as possible. There are certain cues you can pick up on in your child once you know what to look for.

Here are some warning signs to keep an eye on in your child:

- Withdrawal from social events and activities that they used to enjoy
- A focus on diets, calories, health and particular foods. They might talk about wanting to be healthier or fitter and become obsessive about checking the nutritional content of what they are eating.
- They might become irritable or anxious around dinner time. They may refuse to eat certain foods or whole food groups.
- Complaints about the way they look, e.g. "I'm ugly" or "I'm fat", or negative comments about their abilities, e.g. "I'm hopeless"
- Frequent self scrutiny – such as weighing themselves or excessively looking at their reflection.
- Change in clothing style such as wearing baggy or oversized clothing

If you notice any of these signs in your child it is important to seek help as early as possible. You know your child best, so trust your instincts. If you are finding it hard to be accepting of your own body, remember it's never too late to seek help.
